Proposal for Museum Studies Minor
Dean Rick Short proposed for the Museum Studies minor which is an interdisciplinary collaboration between the Art History and Anthropology Program of the United States with input from the History program. The Coordinating Board requires two separate degrees to allow students to complete a Bachelor’s Degree without leaving the Master’s Degree program. All four colleges are involved in this type of work. This is the first and only university-wide interdisciplinary collaboration to address significant 21st Century issues, and all four colleges are involved in this type of work. Area industries have given their support and contribution to assist in vetting the curriculum, specifically NASA.

After further discussion and clarification, the proposal was voted on and approved.

It was noted that this policy is totally separate from FMLA. Further discussion followed, and it was determined that changes need to be made and brought back to University Council for final vote and approval.
